GENOGRAMS: ASSESSMENT AND INTERVENTION BY MONICA MCGOLDRICK, RANDY GERSON, SYLVIA SHELLENBERGER PDF

Using famous families as case studies, this book explains how to draw, interpret and apply the genogram, a graphic way of organizing information gathered during a family assessment. It explains how the use of genograms can bring to light a family's history of divorce, suicide, or estrangement, revealing inter-generational patterns that are more than coincidental. Widely used in the training of health and mental health professionals, this work is an introduction to the principles of family systems theory. This edition has been updated and expanded to include developments in genogram use.

Great Book

By Orchid Goddess

If you're not familiar with Genograms you will after you read this book. It tells you how to use this book for your family sessions and by using genograms as a therapeutic technique. I recommend you buy a genogram software so it can help you do what. It doesn't come with a CD. Which is the down side of this book you will have to pay extra money for that.

I used this book for my Marriage and Family System Class.

A Map for Counseling

By Selena

If you're a Marriage and Family Therapist, or a counselor or psychologist this book will help you. It teaches you how to map out families and family patterns. It helps you to understand the family connection to your client's problems. Your client will also gain a better understanding of themselves and their family during the process of mapping. This book is a great tool.

Great tool for a wide range of clients.

By M. Wolf

This was an assigned book in my graduate program. I thought it was a nice tool but way too time intensive for the majority of work I do. I have found that it is a wonderful tool for working with people who have an organic impairment or concrete thinking patterns. I have drawn the geno-gram on a white board during the first few sessions with the client. It helps me get a clearer history from the client and gives them a visual, which can be helpful in processing information.
