George Ure of UrbanSurvival.com has done it again! This is the 4th edition of this magnificent guide to better living.

By TahoeSally

One would think that trying to get by on $10,000 a year is impossible. Well, George in a very humorous way gives us the road map never traveled. Why, because we have so much crap rammed down our throats by CorpAmerica that it takes everything we make plus credit cards and whatever we can talk out Mom and Dad just to get by. What if it was possible to have the best that life has to offer and it only cost $10,000? Well, George Ure of urbansurvival.com has done the impossible. Thanks George for one more book on how to live the good life.

There are better extreme frugality books out there.

By Jose

The author has a disjointed style of writing which is irritating. When you move beyond this the content is alarmist and highly padded. Really you could condense half the book by advising the reader to live without a car and house share. I would not recommend this book sorry. You have potential George but you missed the mark with this one.

Interesting but not practical

By William Dudley

This text is okay, but as the authors state, many of the tactics are not ones they have used but rather have been those that others have used. It is not really a practical guide but thought provoking never the less.
