INTAKE 131: NINETEEN WEEKS AS A RHODESIAN ARMY OFFICER CADET BY SANDY SANDERSON PDF

In 1973, Sandy Sanderson attended School of Infantry in Gwelo, in what was then central Rhodesia, for officer training. Now, more than 40 years on, he has written a book based on the diary he kept. The result is a frank, detailed and sometimes humorous account of the training as it happened. The book will be intriguing to people from all parts of the world with an interest in the military.

In June 1977, Time magazine commented, "Man for man, the Rhodesian Army ranks amongst the world's finest fighting units". If this were true the training must surely have contributed. Recruits were trained by some of the toughest and most experienced military instructors in the world, all of whom possessed a varied, if profane, vocabulary. As Sandy put it, "Any Rhodesian drill instructor could string a sentence together consisting entirely of expletives, apart from the odd indefinite article, and make perfect sense". In spite of this they were hugely respected and their expertise undoubtedly saved many lives.

I can strongly recommend this book to anyone interested in the life of ...

By Peter S.

I have just finished this very well written, detailed account of the author's experiences at the Rhodesian School of Infantry - a read that took me back 44 years in time. As a T.F. cadet myself, my immediate thought was "where in the world did he find time to keep such a detailed journal?"

Sandy Sanderson has accurately captured the entire range of emotions that we experienced; from the OSB selection process through to that final nail-biting moment when we finally learned what our fates would be.

I can strongly recommend this book to anyone interested in the life of a territorial soldier during the Rhodesian war years, but especially to all former S.Inf cadets. Reading the book, I found myself with an almost permanent grin on my face as I remembered running up the kopje, doing guard duty in the guti (I hated that greatcoat!), and cleaning up the mess in the mess after our initiation.

Congrats Sandy on an excellent effort and thanks for the memories!
